GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

Thirty-Sixth Annual Encampment.

The blare of trump and roll of drum
Resound through park and street
To tell where marching heroes come,
Who seldom knew retreat.

No more the battle roar prevails,
Where dead and wounded lie,
But over all "Old Glory" sails
Beneath the Union sky!

And through this glorious land sweet peace
Presides with double sway,
Where love and truth shall never cease
To bless the "Blue" and "Gray"!

THE MEETING.

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW.

After so long an absence
At last we meet again;
Does the meeting give us pleasure,
Or does it give us pain?

The tree of life has been shaken,
And but few of us linger now,
Like the prophet's two or three berries
In the top of the uppermost bough.

We cordially greet each other
In the old familiar tone;
And we think, though we do not say it,
How old and gray he has grown.

We speak of friends and their fortunes,
And of what they did and said,
Till the dead alone seem living,
And the living alone seem dead.

A Brief History
of the
Grand Army of the Republic.

After a lapse of ten years, the city of Washington again welcomes the Grand Army of the Republic. The ravages of time have thinned its ranks to a mere shadow of its former might, but the grizzled veterans who have responded to this call to fraternize at the Nation's Capital will be met with outstretched hands and accorded a royal welcome, such as Washington alone can give.

Looking back through the dim vista to those stormy days when the Nation was in the throes of civil strife, these visitors of to-day will realize more keenly than ever before the grand achievements that were made possible through their efforts.

The old soldiers of to-day, who met on Pennsylvania Avenue in grand review nearly forty years ago, will marvel at the growth and grandeur of the Nation's Capital. Her broad avenues, magnificent parks, and stately buildings stand as a tribute to their loyalty and valor.

The Grand Army of the Republic had its first conception in the minds of Major B. F. Stephenson and Chaplain W. J. Rutledge, of the 14th Illinois Infantry. They were comrades during many weary marches, and in February, 1864, they formulated the idea of perpetuating the memories of comradeship, and the vivid experiences of war in the organization of a society which should be known as the Grand Army of the Republic. This long-cherished idea did not assume definite shape until after the close of the war, and the first meeting was held at Springfield, Ill., in March, 1866. Those present on this occasion, and whose names are written as founders of the order, were—Col. John M. Snyder, Dr. James Hamilton, Maj. Robert M. Woods, Maj. Robert Allen, Chaplain William J. Rutledge, Col. Martin Flood, Col. Daniel Grass, Col.

Edward Prince, Capt. John S. Phelps, Capt. John A. Lightfoot, Capt. B. F. Smith, Brevet Major A. A. North, Capt. Henry E. Howe, and Lieut. B. F. Hawkes.

Notwithstanding the fact that the organization came into being at Springfield, the first Grand Army post was organized April 6, 1866, at Decatur, Ill., with a charter membership of twelve. The first National Encampment convened at Indianapolis, Ind., November 20, 1866, with founder B. F. Stephenson presiding. Gen. S. A. Hurlbut, of Illinois, was elected Commander-in-Chief, and Major Stephenson, Adjutant-General.

In the early days these reunions partook largely of a business nature, but as the organization increased in membership, social features were added, until they became delightful occasions, looked forward to with great pleasure by the veterans and their families.

Closely allied to the Grand Army of the Republic are the Sons of Veterans, who have been for the first time officially invited to meet with the senior organization at the present encampment in Washington.

The celebration of this—the thirty-sixth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic—has an added charm to the veterans who participate, for the reason that it rekindles old memories that cluster around Washington. This is true, not alone because it is the Nation's Capital, and the point from which the movements of armies were directed in the old days, but because of its close proximity to many battlefields. All of these historic spots will again be visited, and the memories they awaken will sweep aside the curtain of years, and the decrepit soldier of to-day will renew his youth as he reviews the scenes of forty years ago.

Washington is proud of the opportunity to again welcome the Grand Army of the Republic. The city is gaily decorated in honor of their coming, and free-hearted hospitality will emphasize the pleasure that is felt in entertaining our honored guests.

HARVEY'S Established 1858.

The old, original, and leading restaurant of the National Capital. The only Complete Oyster House in the World, where have dined all the great men of the nation and comrades of the War of the Rebellion. Established in 1858, the old and original proprietor, Harvey, still commands his division. He is a natural epicure and his success is attributed to his unerring judgment in selecting the finest eatables and viands in the market. He stands a peer in serving the three most delicate dishes of the American Continent, Oysters, Diamond-back Terrapin and Canvas-back Duck and he still gives special attention to these specialties of the house, also to Broiled Live Lobster and all varieties of sea-food.

via the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Company's powerful iron palace steamers "Norfolk," "Washington," and "Newport News," making connections at these points via rail and water to all the battlefields in Virginia. Steamers leave company's wharf, Foot of Seventh Street every evening in the year at 6:30 o'clock. An opportunity is given passengers to witness many historic points of national interest on the Potomac River, Chesapeake Bay, Hampton Roads, and the Harbor of Norfolk, and also to visit the large shipyards at Newport News, where there are under construction at the present time six large battle-ships for the U. S. Government. Visiting members of the G. A. R. and others will find this trip on the magnificent steamers of this company a most desirable one. The steamers are fitted with all modern improvements, having electric lights and steam heat. The cuisine is the finest that the Washington and Norfolk markets can afford, including all the delicacies of the season. The fare from Washington to Fort Monroe or Norfolk, and return for members of the G. A. R. and visitors holding excursion tickets over railroads, will be $3.00 or $2.00 one way. Staterooms accommodating two and three people are $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50, and $3.00.

BUTTS & PHILLIPS, Pension Attorneys.

Branch Office, 13 Willoughby St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lenman Building, Washington, D. C.

From The National Tribune, Washington, D. C., Thursday, April 22, 1897.

We adopt a somewhat unusual course in calling attention to the announcement of Messrs. Butts & Phillips, which reappears in another column of this issue. Not only have they been successful as practitioners, but their personal war record gives an additional interest to their career. The fact that they are both veterans naturally had a bearing upon the success they have achieved professionally in the special line of practice to which they have devoted their efforts. Both members of the firm have had the advantage of long service in responsible positions in the Pension Bureau.

Major Butts organized and managed the Army and Navy Survivors' Division, which has been officially described as having enabled over 69,000 claimants to prove their cases before the Bureau who otherwise would have failed for lack of evidence.

Don't Forget Woodbury To-day - =

What is Your Weak Spot? Have you ever thought why it was you are not entirely successful in all the affairs of life—why, in spite of your efforts you fail to reach the goal? Have you critically examined yourself? Isn't there something not just right? You must remember the slightest deformity of the nose often has a disastrous effect on the entire face—outstanding or lopped ears give to the countenance a wild, uncultured appearance—a scar, a birth-mark, a red nose—wrinkled, blemished skin or some hideous skin or scalp disease are apt to destroy all the good points one might otherwise possess. If anything is wrong with your eyes, nose, ears, mouth, chin, throat, neck, or if your skin is wrinkled, sallow, faded, and clouded with moles, warts, red veins, superfluous hair, or any other disfiguring or humiliating deformity, blemish, or disease, I will tell you, without charge, how to successfully overcome all these unsightly and embarrassing imperfections. Consultation in person or by letter is free and strictly confidential.

MARVEL OF THE 20TH CENTURY.

COME AND SEE HOW IT IS DONE.

My scientific methods for correcting imperfect and deformed features—remodeling and setting back lopped ears—removing a baggy throat—straightening a crooked or humped nose—correcting a broken or deformed nose—filling out a flat or dished nose, wrinkles, hollow cheeks, and all sunken or wasted parts without cutting or using a knife in any way. No dressing—no delay—the effect is immediate—the result permanent and satisfying.

Thousands of the smartest men and women throughout the land are happier to-day for having been perfected in some way by my scientific treatments and operations, and you can be made just as happy by asking for any information you may require to overcome the peculiarities of your own case. I do not claim to perform miracles, but I can and do make both men and women appear natural and healthy if they have been marked by nature, accident, or disease. Consultation is free and strictly confidential. Call and see me to-day or write for book and full information.

Attorneys and Counselors,
 1331 F Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

Practice before the United States Supreme Court, the Court of Claims and the Departments.

Special and expert attention given matters relating to settlement of accounts of ex-Volunteer Officers.

Congress has recently passed a law for the relief of officers and enlisted men of the Volunteer forces, who served during the Civil War.

The law provides that where the officer is dead, the money due shall be paid to his widow, heirs, or legal representatives. Remarriage of widow does not destroy her title.

We believe that many officers were not fully paid for their services and that the money can be collected, and shall be glad to get into communication with interested persons.

We are especially anxious to communicate with officers (or their heirs) who (1) were not paid for recruiting services, or for services rendered prior to muster in; (2) who are denied bounty by reason of promotion or by reason of limitation of statute; (3) who were dismissed from the service; (4) who are denied travel-pay on any ground, and (5) especially who were not mustered because command was below its minimum strength.

Proper blanks promptly furnished on application.

GENERAL U. S. GRANT.

THE WASHINGTON OF TO-DAY.

The phenomenal growth of Washington during the past decade will be apparent to the thousands who have gathered at the Nation's Capital in celebration of the Thirty-sixth Annual Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

They will note with pride the large number of magnificent buildings that have been erected since the last reunion, held in this city in 1892, and will be impressed with the many beautifying features, which are in accord with a well-defined plan to make Washington the grandest of all the capitals of the world.

Notable among the public buildings that have been completed within the last ten years are the Library of Congress, the new Government Printing Office, the City Post Office, the new Corcoran Art Gallery, and the Carnegie Library.

The new Library of Congress, adjacent to the Capitol, surpasses in architectural grandeur and interior magnificence any similar building in the world. It was constructed at a cost of over $5,000,000, and contains upwards of one million publications.

The new Government Printing Office, just completed, is by far the largest printing establishment in existence. The building is of iron and steel construction, and its seven stories contain 340,000 square feet of floor space.

The City Post Office, occupying the block between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets, facing Pennsylvania Avenue, is an imposing granite structure, and its ample proportions anticipate the growth of the city.

Just south of the War, State and Navy Department building is located the new Corcoran Art Gallery, which stands as a monument to the generosity of the late W. W. Corcoran. The deed of trust specified that its purposes were to be "the perpetual establishment and encouragement of painting, sculpture, and the fine arts generally," and that "it should be open to visitors, without charge, two days in the week, and on other days at moderate and reasonable charges, to be applied to the current expense of procuring and keeping in order the building and its contents." It contains, without doubt, the finest collection of art treasures to be seen in America.

With Washington's characteristic energy, Mr. Andrew Carnegie's munificent gift, providing for a free library, has already assumed definite form in a very handsome white marble building in Mount Vernon Square, which has just been formally transferred to the city.

The city has recently purchased the square bounded by Thirteen-and-a-half Street, Fourteenth Street, Pennsylvania Avenue and D Street as a site for the proposed new Municipal Building, which will be erected at a cost of a million dollars or more.

THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

The White House is at present undergoing extensive improvements, and when President Roosevelt again occupies it, the building will have been completely refurbished throughout.

It has been said that nearly everyone visits Washington once in ten years, and accepting this as a fact, it is unnecessary to go into great detail relative to the various Government buildings. From the Washington Monument, with its 555 feet of perpendicular marble, to the great white dome of the Capitol, all are familiar sights to a majority of those who are in attendance upon this Thirty-sixth Annual Encampment of the Grand Army.

Washington is primarily a residence city. Its cosmopolitan population includes men and women who have attained prominence in all walks of life, and its educational advantages will compare favorably with those of any city in America. Its broad avenues, magnificent parks and boulevards have attracted people of wealth and refinement from all parts of the world, who maintain beautiful residences here. Uncle Sam employs upwards of 20,000 people in the various governmental departments, and, all in all, Washington represents a prosperous, thriving city, the population of which, at the present time, numbers upward of 350,000, including nearby suburbs.

It is safe to say that no city in America contains so much that is interesting to the visitor as Washington. Its citizens are tireless in extending free-hearted hospitality, and for this reason it has become a most popular meeting-place for all great organizations and conventions.

A supremely cordial and friendly greeting is extended to the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and the thousands who have made this reunion the occasion of a visit to the Nation's Capital. The city's gates are open and every latch-string is out.

THE OLDROYD LINCOLN MEMORIAL COLLECTION.

The house in which Lincoln died.

The house in which President Lincoln died is located at 516 Tenth Street N. W., between E and F Streets, and directly opposite Ford's Theater, where President Lincoln was shot by J. Wilkes Booth in the private box a few minutes past ten o'clock on the night of April 14, 1865, and almost immediately carried across the street to the house in which he died (the home of Wm. Petersen) at twenty-two minutes past seven the following morning.

If one born in the time of Shakespeare had so absorbed vitality and time as to have gathered in one memorial collection three thousand articles pertaining to the poet, he would have rightfully won the gratitude of all coming nations. This work of love is what Osborn H. Oldroyd has done for Abraham Lincoln. For forty years he has so devoted himself to the great personality of a man whom, alas, he never saw, that to-day his collection of three thousand articles is one of the most interesting and valuable ever collected in behalf of a human being.

For nearly twenty years now they have been open to the public eye, having been in the Lincoln Homestead in Springfield, Ill., ten years before being removed to their present quarters in the City of Washington, 516 Tenth Street N. W. Mr. Oldroyd rented the Lincoln Homestead at Springfield, Ill., in 1883, placing in it his valuable collection and admitting visitors free for five years, when through his influence Robert Lincoln presented the property to the State of Illinois. In 1893 he removed his collection to Washington, since which time it has been on exhibition in this historic house which Congress purchased in 1897. Mr. Oldroyd has permission from the Secretary of War to charge a small fee until such time as Congress provides for free admission, which will probably be done at the next session.

Soldiers' Homesteads Wanted.

Private, Stroud's Independent Pa. Cavalry.

Did you, or any relative or friend, who served in the Union Army or Navy during 1861 to, make a homestead entry of less than 160 acres of government land prior to June 22, 1874? If so, you are entitled to an additional homestead right to make up 160 acres, even if the original entry was abandoned or relinquished. If you took 40 acres, your additional right is good for 120 acres. Where the soldier is dead, his widow or other heirs are entitled. I buy and sell these additional homestead rights. If you or your friends are interested, write me at once. I pay liberally for information which results in a purchase. Do not write if you never made a homestead entry.

Are now obtained through the regular CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS which are held semi-annually in all the States.

There are now 126,000 positions in the classified Civil Service and over 10,000 appointments were made during the past year. Those who stand best on the eligible registers get the appointments. Thomas Circle, looking north on Fourteenth Street, toward North Columbia Heights.

The cross X indicates the exact location of North Columbia Heights relative to Fourteenth Street extended. That is, one square north of Holmead Manor, and extending from Fourteenth Street extended (not Fourteenth Street Road) to Brightwood Avenue.

Growth of the City out Fourteenth Street, one mile every ten years.

In 1880 Thomas Circle was as effectually the boundary of the city from the standpoint of city improvements as Florida Avenue in 1890, and North Columbia Heights in 1902, extending thereby the city in solid blocks of new, magnificent residences two and one-fourth miles farther northward (in the line of Fourteenth Street, as shown by the above cut), making millions for those who exercise their foresight by buying ground in this the most popular section in the great northwest.

$1,000,000 Appropriation for Sixteenth Street.

The appropriation of $1,000,000 for the immediate extension of Sixteenth Street to the District Line (five miles) is booming the sale of lots at North Columbia Heights. A Bill is also before the Senate for the extension of Thirteenth and Fourteenth Streets about one mile farther northward. How will the extension of these important thoroughfares affect real estate values at North Columbia Heights?

Prices, Terms, and Sizes of Lots.

Prices, 30 to 35 cents a square foot, ($800 and upward) for 150 lots, the remaining lots being reserved for city prices - $1.50 to $2.50 a square foot. Lots 25 to 100 feet front by 75 to 150 feet deep to 15-foot alleys.

Terms: $50 to $100 cash and $15 to $20 monthly on each lot, or one-third cash, balance one, two, and three years; 5 per cent off for cash. Money loaned to build at the lowest rates of interest. Carriage free to see the property. Drop postal for plat and new 16-page illustrated "booklet," etc.

GONZAGA COLLEGE.

Gonzaga College is identified with the history of the Nation's Capital. There are many institutions of learning now included within the lines of the city which George Washington marked out to bear his name, but Gonzaga College has the proud distinction of being the oldest college in the city. This is its first claim to general interest. When in future years Washington will be a great seat of learning, the historian who writes of the city's educational life will be constrained to begin with the not inglorious record of Gonzaga College, upon whose muster roll are found the names of many who, like the illustrious citizens of ancient Rome, have deserved well of the Republic. Founded in 1821 on F Street near St. Patrick's Church, it was known for many years as the "Washington Seminary," and its early career was most successful.

Its first rector, Rev. Anthony Kohlmann, s. j., a man of eminent piety and learning, had been rector of Georgetown College, and had filled the highest positions in the Maryland Province of the Society, when he was appointed to direct the destinies of the infant college. After three years spent in zealous labors for its advancement, Fr. Kohlmann was, in 1824, recalled to Rome by Pope Leo XII. to fill the chair of Theology in the Roman College, where he had among his pupils the present illustrious Sovereign Pontiff, Leo XIII.

September 4, 1871, the College was removed to I Street N. W., near North Capitol Street, its present location. It is directed by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, and is intended for day scholars only. No student will be admitted unless of good moral character; but diversity of religion will be no bar to entrance, nor will students who are not Catholic be required to attend exercises distinctively Catholic.

The system of education is in accordance with the principles of the famous Ratio Studiorum which has been followed in all Jesuit Colleges for over three hundred years. Obviously it is not a mere educational experiment as most of the modern systems. For over one hundred years it was the only system of Christian education in Europe, and most of the great thinkers and writers of the past century were brought up under its influence.

It is worthy of remark that in the more approved modern systems there is a return to the principles of the Ratio Studiorum. Its chief aim is to develop the moral faculties in accordance with correct principles, and thus make better men and more patriotic citizens. The first principle of the Jesuit educator is thoroughness, as commended by Horace: "Multum, non multa," "a great deal but not a great many things." This principle is followed out in his own long training of seventeen years, so that no one can be more imbued with the idea that thoroughness should be the foundation of all education, and that it should be the keystone of all good art, science and literature.

Hence it is not surprising that the College numbers among her sons men prominent in the higher walks of life, who have shined her name in honor, and who retain even to their dying day a deep-seated affection for their Alma Mater. Last year a Preparatory Department, coinciding in its four classes with the eight grades of the ordinary grammar school, was added. It was felt that the impressionable minds of the young from the age of eight to fourteen needed special care and attention. The chief aim of this Department, while forming the pupils to habits of piety and industry, is to teach the principles of Christian courtesy and self-control. Gentlemanly deportment is a distinguishing feature of this School; no pupils are received who do not give indications thereof, and none are retained who transgress in his regard.

HENRY COPPERTHITE,

PROPRIETOR OF THE Connecticut Pie & & Company.

Seventeen years ago this November there came to Washington from New Haven, Conn., a man who was unknown to the residents of this city, practically penniless and without a friend upon whom he could count for aid of any kind. This man was Henry Copperthite, proprietor of the Connecticut Pie Co., the largest pie industry in the District of Columbia. After countless exertions and unceasing thrift, Mr. Copperthite started in the pie baking business for himself, and his first day's sales amounted to ninety cents. A striking contrast is shown when we state that during the Spanish war the Connecticut Pie Co. sold in one day at Camp Alger, Va., 19,000 of their pies to the soldiers encamped there. On August 1st last, Mr. Copperthite purchased the bakery in New Haven, Conn., where he learned his trade, for \$50,000 cash, and placed his two sons, Charles and Henry, in charge of the business. This bakery has a capacity of from 6,000 to 8,000 pies daily. The Connecticut Pie Co., of Norfolk, Va., controlled by Mr. Copperthite, has a capacity of from 8,000 to 10,000 pies daily, and a branch of the same firm in Richmond, Va., operated by Wm. Van Densen & Bro., turns out from 5,000 to 8,000 pies every day. Mr. Copperthite owns a farm in Virginia of 243 acres, purchased four years ago, where he raises most of the fruits and vegetables used in his pies. The milk, eggs, butter, etc., come from the same place. In all of Mr. Copperthite's bakeries nothing but pies are made, and in one oven alone, here in Washington, 11,600 pies were baked in one day. Mr. Copperthite has but one "hobby." He is fond of a good trotting horse, and "Ida C," 2.12 $\frac{1}{4}$, and "Mattie C," 2.21 $\frac{1}{2}$, show that he knows a good roadster when he sees one. Mr. Copperthite is generous to a fault, popular among his employees, a G. A. R. man in good standing, and a credit to himself and the city.—J. E. G.

McKINLEY AND ROOSEVELT

Inaugural, 1901, Souvenir.

The Washington committee in charge of the second inauguration of President McKinley last year issued an elaborate "Inaugural Souvenir, 1901," in the form of a book containing steel engravings of all the presidents from Washington to McKinley, with a historical description of each inauguration. The book was printed on heavy hand-made paper, and the steel plates, which were furnished by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, made the work extremely valuable. After the inaugural ball 200 of these books remained unused. They were bought by James Templeton, of Chicago, who has rebound them in full morocco, adding nine pages of half-tone pictures, including that of the governors and staffs of Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Nebraska, and of William McKinley and his staff when he was governor of Ohio. There are also groups of the Supreme Court justices, and of the United States Senate, when it voted for the Spanish war. The whole makes a most desirable historical souvenir, the limited size of the edition rendering the book one to be sought after eagerly by collectors. The five governors represented in the book were all that attended the inauguration with their staffs in an official capacity. The souvenir can be obtained while he 200 lasts at
